JENKINS UPHOLDS NATION LEAGUE

SPEAKS ON IMPORTANT QUESTION
BEFORE LARGE CROWD

RAPS LEAGUE OPPONENTS

Prominent K. C. Editor in an Inspiring
Address Presents Reasons for the League.—Concert.

Dr. Burris A. Jenkins of Kansas City, editor, minister, traveler, and for several years a press correspondent on the battle fields of France, delivered an inspiring talk last night at the court house square to a large crowd of Maryville and Nodaway county residents in support of the great international question "The League of Nations."

Dr. Jenkins gave the commencement day address at the State Teachers College yesterday morning and through special arrangement by the several prominent men of this city, was persuaded to remain over last night and speak on the important topic.

At the opening of his talk, Dr. Jenkins launched at once into the general make-up or context of the present covenant, describing it as a "non-partisan, humanitarian and religious document."

He then gave a brief summary of the relations of the great Allied Powers toward the winning of the war. "Belgium," he said, "could very well make the boast that during the first few weeks of the struggle, she held back the progress of the Huns through her country, at a terrible sacrifice of her young manhood, while England and France were mobilizing her troops. In the same way, Britain, France and Italy, could relate instance after instance where they held back the German advance, which would have meant a certain victory. He then described how the United States had entered the war at a time when the Boches were making a rapid move toward Paris, and how the Yankee doughboys had repulsed the enemy at Chateau Thierry and turned the tide of the great war. In a graphic manner he told of the haughty advance of the Kaiser and how victory was taken out of his very reach by the re-enforcement of the American troops. "But," said Dr. Jenkins, "it was all these factors taken together that meant the winning of the war for the cause of freedom and justice—without any one of them the Germans would have undoubtedly been successful." Taking this as an example of the power of united effort, the speaker brought before his audience the question of whether such co-operation during war, would not have a similar good effect in the prevention of war, and the establishment of universal peace. Dr. Jenkins next told of the German propaganda which had such a demoralizing effect among the Allied troops during the war. He stated that this same propaganda here in the United States is attempting to drive a wedge between the United States and Great Britain. "The man who tries to create a breach between this country and Great Britain, either through speech or through the press, is not only an arch enemy to his country, but is a criminal in the sight of God," he said.

Average of $2,155 Paid for Shorthorns.

The total amount of money paid for cattle at the three public Shorthorn cattle sales and one private Aberdeen Angus sale held in Nodaway County last week reached the staggering figure of $325,400, a record breaking price. The Bellows Bros. sale topped the list for total sale amount, bringing $157,375.00. The sale of Blackcap Bertram for $45,000, the world's record price by Caldwell & Son of Burlington Junction was the high price for a single animal. Roan Princess, a cow, sold at the Bellows Bros. sale brought $7,100 which was the high price for a cow. Bellows Bros. sale brought an average of $2,155 per animal which is the highest average ever made at any Shorthorn sale in the country for the number of animals sold.

The total amount of the Odgen Shorthorn sale was $73,925. The high price for a bull was $6,800 and for a cow was $3,100 at this sale and the average was $1,297. J. A. Crist of Skidmore sold $50,000 worth of Shorthorns, the high price for a cow being $4,000 and for a bull $1,975. Undoubtedly these sales put Nodaway County among the very first centers of the thoroughbred cattle markets of the United States.

S.T.C. ALUMNI HELD BANQUET

MRS. CAUFFIELD, NEW SECRETARY
MISS HOLLIDAY, NEW HISTORIAN

TESSIE DEGAN, PRESIDENT

Many Toasts Made—Pres. Richardson
Tells of Plans for Extending of
College Courses Next Year.

The Commencement season of the State Teachers College closed last night with the alumni banquet held in the banquet hall of the First Christian church at 6:30 o'clock. About 200 members of the alumni association were present. At the business meeting held immediately before the banquet the officers for the ensuing year were elected. They were Miss Tessie M. Degan, of St. Joseph, president; Mrs. Jessie Bent Cauffield of Maryville, secretary and treasurer, and Miss Frances Holliday of Maryville, historian. Miss Ella Moore, the former president of the association presided at the last night's meeting and acted as toastmistress.

"How We Met the Crisis" was the subject of the first toast, given by Miss Mattie Dykes. Miss Dykes reviewed the work of the students of the State Teachers College toward helping to win the war. She told of raising nearly a thousand dollars for the loan fund, the work of the Red Cross Unit, subscription for war savings which amounted to $12,700,000, the formation of the "two bits" a week club to buy war saving stamps. This enumeration of the war work of the students showed that the college students here were like those elsewhere in that they were the most consistent of all war workers.

Lowell Livengood in his toast "Over the Top" made one of the best toasts of the evening. There were two things he said that had impressed the American soldier in this war, first that the United States was the greatest nation on the face of the earth and second that the American soldier was the most heroic of all soldiers. Mr. Livengood mentioned the four characteristics of the khaki clad soldier—first, he was devoutly profane; second, he was always hungry; third, he was always broke, and fourth, he always wanted to be somewhere other than the place he was. At the conclusion of this toast the speaker answered the four most questions. The first question answered was, How does it feel to go "over the top?" This was answered by repeating the words of a negro soldier who said: "It's like saying, 'Good Morning Jesus.'" The next question was, Whether you hear the big shells coming? which was answered by stating that you could. The third question was concerning the per cent killed which was stated as comparatively small. The fourth question was how about the hardships which was answered by replying that it was impossible to describe them in words. Last—What won the war? This was answered by saying that the successful conclusion of the war was due to the dash and initiative of the American army.

Henry Miller's toast followed, his subject being "By Wireless." Mr. Miller told about the life of the radio service and described the importance of the wireless operator's work. He said that the supreme moment of an operator on board a ship came when a ship had been torpedoed and was sinking for then the life of all on board depended upon the courage and the knowledge of the one person. The wireless operator was always ordered to stick to his post to the last and was the last to leave a sinking vessel. In conclusion Mr. Miller said that the successful operations of large squadrons of airplanes depended upon the communication made between them by wireless and that in a great air raid like that planned on Berlin the wireless operators would of necessity be the most important part.

Miss Carrie Coler in her toast "The Greatest Mother" made a most interesting talk. She told of the experiences of her life in an army camp in Georgia. A sick soldier reminded her of a "spoiled baby" who needed a good scolding now and then. Miss Coler then spoke of the attitude of the soldier toward the "blue birds" in which she said that there were a few nurses who were not worthy of the high respect in which they were held by the soldiers and that a few soldiers were (Continued from Page 2)

B. J. AGENT CHARGED WITH DELIVERING BOOZE

The State Brought Charges Against
J. E. Wyckoff Today for Violating Local Option Law.

Prosecuting Attorney Charles McCaffrey, today issued a warrant against J. E. Wyckoff, joint agent of the Wabash and Burlington railroad of Burlington Junction, charging him with delivering one pint of beer, wine, brandy alcohol, whiskey, and gin to certain parties in that town. The charge against Wyckoff is based upon the statute which makes it unlawful in local option territory to keep, store, or deliver to any person or persons intoxicating liquors of any kind. It is probable that the railroad will fight the case in court here, the case being set for the September term of court. Sheriff John Dowden served the papers on Wyckoff this afternoon; the defendant pleading not guilty.

Strikes General Throughout Country—
Mobs Join in Wartime Demonstrations in Cafes.

Berlin, June 25.—Disorders have again broken out in Berlin following the acceptance of the peace treaty. Mobs are looting the shops and other buildings in many parts of the city. One hundred were arrested up to midnight last night and there is a new strike almost hourly. Telephone and postal workers have quit work, handicapping the cities industries. Delayed reports indicate that the strike disturbances are country wide, and feeling of revenge and hatred toward the Allies are springing up along side of the general chaos here. Orchestras in Berlin cafes last night struck up old time war songs and the crowds sang the songs with wild enthusiasm. Everywhere people are discussing earnestly, plans for Germany's revenge, when the proper time comes.

JENKINS ON LEAGUE

who lives the life of a hermit and shuts himself out from society because he does not wish to give up his personal freedom or sovereignty.

The speaker also illustrated that the league of nations does not have as its object the regulation of the size of the armies or navies of the Allied countries. He explained that the league would permit the contracting countries to have as great a military protection as was necessary for and that the pact would in no wise mean that the United States must drop all her military organization.

In speaking of the addresses made by Senator Reed and other opponents of the league, he explained that an entirely wrong explanation is given of the Monroe Doctrine, and that an attempt is being made to create a false impression of this document in the minds of the American people.

Dr. Jenkins also brought out that the charges of the league being unconstitutional were false, and that a personal investigation conducted by the Kansas City Post showed that by a unanimous vote, the opinion of prominent lawyers was that the league is entirely in accordance with the constitution of the United States.

In reply to the statement made by opponents that the United States should remain out of European affairs, Dr. Jenkins replied that "the United States is too big and the world is too small for us to remain a separate and isolated country." He explained that our country is already a great part of the European countries through her trade, and he further explained that the great world war has caused an affiliation between the United States and her Allies which can never be disregarded or broken.

During his period as a war correspondent abroad, Dr. Jenkins came into touch with leading diplomats of many foreign countries, and in his talk last night explained the position of prestige which our own President, Woodrow Wilson, occupies among the statesmen of the world. "There are many people here who criticize President Wilson," he said, "and it is perfectly in accordance with the American ideals of free speech and thought that they should, but, over there, Mr. Wilson is looked up to as a leader in the great questions of the world, and his statement is taken as authority by leading diplomats and brought before his hearers by the European powers."

At the close of his talk, Dr. Jenkins explained the horrors of war as he personally saw them on the fighting fronts, and brought before his hearers the humanitarian phase of the league of nations as the most logical preventative of a repetition of such a world catastrophe.

As an introduction to the speech by Dr. Jenkins last night, Rev. R. E. Snodgrass, pastor of the Christian church here, made an extended address in which he brought out in a strong manner the reasons why the league should receive the support of the people of this country. He illustrated the horrors of the battlefields and cited the large number of American boys who lie in graves in France as the result of war.

The meeting last night was opened by a short concert given by the Maryville band under the direction of Alfred P. Gail. The concert started at 8 o'clock and a large audience enjoyed the excellent program of musical numbers.

Judge John Dawson was chairman of the meeting.

not as respectful as they might have been but on the whole the soldiers were most respectful and the nurses were worthy of such respect. In conclusion Miss Coler answered the most asked question of the army nurse—Do the soldiers fall in love with their nurses? The answer was that some few did but the nurse did not go to the army man hunting but to serve.

Mrs. Emmet Scott spoke next on the subject "At Home." She told of the various ways in which the housewife worked to help win the war. She told of the meatless and wheatless days, of the Red Cross work, the knitting, of the writing letters to lonesome boys overseas and the various methods used to promote the war work.

The Miss Tessie Degan, president elect, spoke on the subject, "Carry On." Miss Degan said that it was up to the graduates to talk up the school here and to advertise it so that they could turn back in later years with pride to the great and growing institution here. Miss Degan suggested two ways to the teachers to do this. One was to place "The Green and White Courier" where the students of the high schools in which they taught could read it. The other way was to contribute articles to the college paper.

President Richardson closed the program with a most impressive speech. His subject was "A Forward Glance." Among the many instructive things that he said were the following: "The future holds in store everything that we desire, everything that we aspire to; the forward glance rules your life, and with the change of the name of the school here should come a change of spirit." President Richardson then mentioned a few of the important actions which were taken by the board of regents. One of these was to the addition of a new department to the course of study to be known as the department of rural education. Another department added was to the course of study, also, was a department of physical education and public health. The board of regents, furthermore, adopted a ruling that all returned service men can have 6 quarters of educational training in the State Teachers College free of charge, and all graduate students may attend school free of charge.

Mrs. Fred Harbison and small daughter of St. Joseph, came last night to visit Mr. Harbison's mother, Mrs. Geo. Ingerson, and other relatives.

CRUEL WIND TAKES AWAY CELLULOID COLLAR AND TIE.

Connellsville, Pa., June 25.—The freak action of the wind was demonstrated here recently. A foreigner wearing a celluloid collar and a "slip-in" bow tie, was seated by an open window of a street car. As the car swung around a bend to a sudden gust the tie was whisked from the collar, the collar was unbuttoned and whipped from the man's neck, and all went flying out of a window on the opposite side of the car.

Plan Hog Development Program.

Thirty-nine field workers in swine husbandry of the United States Department of Agriculture, several state directors of extension work, and others met in a conference in Washington last week with officials of the department. Plans were worked out for carrying on the extension work in developing hog production along more uniform lines than heretofore. Addresses were made by Dr. J. R. Mohler, Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry; G. M. Rommel, Chief of the Division of Animal Husbandry; E. Z. Russell, in charge of swine investigations; Bradford Knapp, chief of extension work in the South, and C. B. Smith, chief of extension work in the North and West. The workers spent a day at the department's experimental hog farm at Beltsville, Md., where judging contests and demonstrations of butchering and vaccination for cholera were held. All phases of the hog industry were discussed during the conference. Particular attention was given to the promotion of feeder animals in the South and the finishing of pork in the corn-belt states.

Elmer Doonan Declares Tanlac Relieved Him of Rheumatism.

"I am glad to tell anybody about a medicine that did me as much good as Tanlac has," said Elmer Doonan, of 434 Fisher Ave., Detroit, Mich., recently.

"It was what I read in the papers about Tanlac that caused me to try it," he continued, "and I want to pass the good word along for the benefit of others. For a long time I had rheumatism so bad that my hands and wrists would swell up and pain me terribly and I would hardly be able to sleep at night on account of my sufferings. I would get up in the morning feeling so tired and worn out I could hardly drag myself off to work. I got so bad that I was losing time from my work and simply couldn't keep up."

"After trying everything else without getting any better I got some Tanlac, and it has done me a world of good. I sleep fine, have a splendid appetite, and am entirely relieved of my rheumatism."

Heat Causes Losses to Shipped Hogs.

Last May 651 hogs, weighing approximately 157,000 pounds, were unloaded dead or died in the stockyards at the South St. Paul market, according to records kept by a representative of the Bureau of Markets, United States Department of Agriculture. Of this number, 359 hogs, weighing approximately 102,500 pounds, died in transit or in yards during the last six days of the month. This was the week of the first real warm weather, and as is usually the case during the first hot spell in the summer season, the loss of hogs in transit was extremely heavy. The difference in price between dead or live hogs during this week was approximately 18 cents a pound, which would mean a total loss of $18,360 to shippers. This loss, says the Bureau of Markets, might have been largely avoided if the shippers had taken proper care in loading, seeing that all cars were properly cleaned before loading, and that cars were not loaded as heavily as is the custom in cooler weather. If these hogs had been loaded in clean cars the losses could have been further decreased by having them sprayed often in transit by the carrier, especially upon arrival at transfer points, and also upon delivery to the terminal. One of the largest buyers of hogs at the South St. Paul market, who reships to other markets for slaughter, states that the losses of his firm during the last week in May were no heavier than usual, but that they were extremely careful to have their cars thoroughly cleaned and sanded before loading, in addition to loading lighter than usual and taking the adequate precaution of requesting the rail road officials to issue instructions to have the hogs sprayed as often as possible in transit.

PECULIAR RECORDS SHOWN BY ASSESSORS IN KANSAS.

McCracken, Kan., June 25.—The record of McCracken's assessor shows many interesting things about the ages of the well-known residents of this city. For instance, one of them is three years older this year than he was last, while another, a leading citizen, is two years older.

In another case the husband has added another year to his already half a hundred, while his wife, who was his schoolmate, is only thirty-eight—the same as for some years past.

The youngest citizen was three days old when the assessor called at the home of his parents, while a woman of eighty-five years claims the honors as the oldest.

Take care of your car when it is new. Oil it, grease it, keep it clean, but above all take care of your battery.

If you follow the few simple rules of battery care from the first day, your battery will not only serve better but last longer.

One of the first things you ought to do when you get your new car is to bring it in and let us tell you what these rules are. Ask us to register your battery at the same time and get the benefit of the Willard 90-day battery insurance policy.

NO 'CHARIVARI' FOR THIS FOR WAR VET AND BRIDE

Friends Who Called on Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Bradley, Newly-weds, Had the Joke Turned on Them.

The time honored custom of the friends of a newly married couple kidnapping, and making them listen to a murderous din of tin pan beating and cow bell ringing, commonly known as a charivari, is all well enough when the bridegroom is an ordinary civilian, but when he is a hero of the battlefields—just returned from battling the Boche—then it's a different thing. Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Bradley, recently married at Kansas City came to Maryville yesterday for a visit with the brides parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tabler on Grand avenue.

Friends of Mrs. Bradley, in this city planned a charivari and went to the Tabler home last night. But young Mr. Bradley has learned through his experiences in the trenches the fine art of eluding the captors, and with his bride on his arm he camouflaged himself against the scenery and from a point of vantage watched the disappointed friends make their search.

The newly-weds held their position well and the friends were forced to retreat without gaining their objective.

JENKINS UPHOLDS NATION LEAGUE

SPEAKS ON IMPORTANT QUESTION
BEFORE LARGE CROWD

RAPS LEAGUE OPPONENTS

Prominent K. C. Editor in an Inspiring
Address Presents Reasons for the League—Concert.

Dr. Burris A. Jenkins of Kansas City, editor, minister, traveler, and for several years a press correspondent on the battle fields of France, delivered an inspiring talk last night at the court house square to a large crowd of Maryville and Nodaway county residents in support of the great international question "The League of Nations."

Dr. Jenkins gave the commencement day address at the State Teachers College yesterday morning and through special arrangement by the several prominent men of this city, was persuaded to remain over last night and speak on the important topic.

At the opening of his talk, Dr. Jenkins launched at once into the general make-up or context of the present covenant, describing it as a "non-partisan, humanitarian and religious document."

He then gave a brief summary of the relations of the great Allied Powers toward the winning of the war. "Belgium," he said, "could very well make the boast that during the first few weeks of the struggle, she held back the progress of the Huns through her country, at a terrible sacrifice of her young manhood, while England and France were mobilizing her troops. In the same way, Britain, France and Italy, could relate instance after instance where they held back the German advance, which would have meant a certain victory. He then described how the United States had entered the war at a time when the Boches were making a rapid move toward Paris, and how the Yankee doughboys had repulsed the enemy at Chateau Thierry and turned the tide of the great war. In a graphic manner he told of the haughty advance of the Kaiser and how victory was taken out of his very reach by the re-enforcement of the American troops. "But," said Dr. Jenkins, "it was all these factors taken together that meant the winning of the war for the cause of freedom and justice—without any one of them the Germans would have undoubtedly been successful." Taking this as an example of the power of united effort, the speaker brought before his audience the question of whether such co-operation during war, would not have a similar good effect in the prevention of war, and the establishment of universal peace. Dr. Jenkins next told of the German propaganda which had such a demoralizing effect among the Allied troops during the war. He stated that this same propaganda here in the United States is attempting to drive a wedge between the United States and Great Britain. "The man who tries to create a breach between this country and Great Britain, either through speech or through the press, is not only an arch enemy to his country, but is a criminal in the sight of God," he said.

said. Dr. Jenkins was a member of the party in which Governor Henry Allen of Kansas, visited the western front in France, and in his talk last night stated that the latter person was never within more than 12 kilos of the firing lines. He branded the attacks of the Kansas Governor as entirely unwarranted and without foundation.

Returning again to the main subject of his talk, Dr. Jenkins told of the foundation of the League of Nations principle. "The principle was not born in 1914 on English soil, as is the idea of some," he said, "but really sprang up here on our own American continent. In the 17th century when our forefathers settled these shores, English, French, Germans and Spanish settled here and it was through an agreement similar to the league of nations that they were able to live and work together in harmony and develop into the great country which we have here today."

Dr. Jenkins gave as an example of the opposition to such documents, the Constitution of the United States. He stated that the signers of this cornerstone of the American republic, realized that it was not perfect, "but that it was the best that could be had at that time" and how amendments were immediately attached to the original document to cover additional points. Dr. Jenkins stated that in a like manner the League of Nations covenant is not perfect, but that it is the best thing that the world has at the present time for the settlement of disputes without warfare. "It is the best that we have," said Dr. Jenkins, "and I accept it and thank God for it."

The speaker then gave a short summary of the provision of the league, stating that one of the principal points was the arbitration features offered. He told of the weapon of an international trade boycott on the nation that refused to abide by the decision of the executive council and stated that the restraint of trade was one of the quickest and surest methods of weakening a country. He showed that the winning of the great world war was due in a great measure, to the blockade of German trade by the Allied fleets.

Dr. Jenkins brought out that the League would bring about the abolishment of all the great munition supply factories. In speaking of this phase of the question, he intimated that some of the dailies which are so antagonistic against the league, "May," as he expressed it, "be controlled by these companies. Another point brought out by Dr. Jenkins in support of the league was that it would do away with the secret diplomatic conferences, in which foreign rulers were wont to decide matters of world strife and bloodshed. He explained through a league of nations, such matters would be subject to open discussion and that every man, woman and child in the effected countries would be able to keep in touch with the action which was being taken by their government.

In speaking of the objections brought by opponents of the league, Dr. Jenkins, touched first on the alleged loss of sovereignty which the United States would suffer by such a pact. "The United States does not want to invade Mexico or Canada," he said, "and the statement that the United States is sovereign in the western hemisphere is a thorn in the sides of Brazil, Argentina, and other large South American countries. We are not alone here on this continent, as are many of the opponents of the league would wish us to believe, and we can not remain separate and isolated from our great neighboring countries." Dr. Jenkins explained the idea of the loss of sovereignty as similar to a man (Continued on Page 2)

The Bellows Bros. sale topped the list for total sale amount, bringing $157,375.00. The sale of Blackcap Tertram for $45,000, the world's record price by Caldwell & Son of Burlington Junction was the high price for a single animal. Roan Princess, a cow, sold at the Bellows Bros. sale brought $7,100 which was the high price for a cow. S.T.C. ALUMNI HELD BANQUET

MISS HOLLIDAY, NEW HISTORIAN

TESSIE DEGAN, PRESIDENT

Many Toasts Made—Pres. Richardson
Tells of Plans for Extending of
College Courses Next Year.

The Commencement season of the State Teachers College closed last night with the alumni banquet held in the banquet hall of the First Christian church at 6:30 o'clock. About 200 members of the alumni association were present. At the business meeting held immediately before the banquet the officers for the ensuing year were elected. They were Miss Tessie M. Degan, of St. Joseph, president; Mrs. Jessie Bent Cauffield of Maryville, secretary and treasurer; and Miss Frances Holliday of Maryville, historian. Miss Ella Moore, the former president of the association presided at the last night's meeting and acted as toastmistress.

"How We Met the Crisis" was the subject of the first toast, given by Miss Mattie Dykes. Miss Dykes reviewed the work of the students of the State Teachers College toward helping to win the war. She told of raising nearly a thousand dollars for the loan fund, the work of the Red Cross Unit, subscription for war savings which amounted to $12,700,000, the formation of the "two bits" a week club to buy war saving stamps. This enumeration of the war work of the students showed that the college students here were like those elsewhere in that they were the most consistent of all war workers.

Lowell Livengood in his toast "Over the Top" made one of the best toasts of the evening. There were two things he said that had impressed the American soldier in this war, first that the United States was the greatest nation on the face of the earth and second that the American soldier was the most heroic of all soldiers. Mr. Livengood mentioned the four characteristics of the khaki clad soldier—first, he was devoutly profane; second, he was always hungry; third, he was always broke, and fourth, he always wanted to be somewhere other than the place he was. At the conclusion of this toast the speaker answered the four most questions. The first question answered was, How does it feel to go "over the top?" This was answered by repeating the words of a negro soldier who said: "It's like saying, 'Good Morning Jesus.'" The next question was, Whether you hear the big shells coming? which was answered by stating that you could. The third question was concerning the per cent killed which was stated as comparatively small. The fourth question was how about the hardships which was answered by replying that it was impossible to describe them in words. Last—What won the war? This was answered by saying that the successful conclusion of the war was due to the dash and initiative of the American army.

Henry Miller's toast followed, his subject being "By Wireless." Mr. Miller told about the life of the radio service and described the importance of the wireless operator's work. He said that the supreme moment of an operator on board a ship came when a ship had been torpedoed and was sinking for then the life of all on board depended upon the courage and the knowledge of the one person. The wireless operator was always ordered to stick to his post to the last and was the last to leave a sinking vessel. In conclusion Mr. Miller said that the successful operations of large squadrons of airplanes depended upon the communication made between them by wireless and that in a great air raid like that planned on Berlin the wireless operators would of necessity be most important part.

Miss Carrie Coler in her toast "The Greatest Mother" made a most interesting talk. She told of the experiences of her life in an army camp in Georgia. A sick soldier reminded her of a "spoiled baby" who needed a good scolding now and then. Miss Coler then spoke of the attitude of the soldier toward the "blue birds" in which she said that there were a few nurses who were not worthy of the high respect in which they were held by the soldiers and that a few soldiers were (Continued on Page 2)

B. J. AGENT CHARGED WITH DELIVERING BOOZE

The State Brought Charges Against
J. E. Wyckoff Today for Violating Local Option Law.

Prosecuting Attorney Charles McCaffrey, today issued a warrant against J. E. Wyckoff, joint agent of the Wabash and Burlington railroad of Burlington Junction, charging him with delivering one pint of beer, wine, brandy alcohol, whiskey, and gin to certain parties in that town. The charge against Wyckoff is based upon the statute which makes it unlawful in local option territory to keep, store, or deliver to any person or persons intoxicating liquors of any kind. It is probable that the railroad will fight the case in court here, the case being set for the September term of court. Sheriff John Dowden served the papers on Wyckoff this afternoon, the defendant pleading not guilty.

HATRED TOWARD ALLIES

Strikes General Throughout Country—
Mobs Join in Wartime Demonstrations in Cafes.

Berlin, June 25.—Disorders have again broken out in Berlin following the acceptance of the peace treaty. Mobs are looting the shops and other buildings in many parts of the city. One hundred were arrested up to midnight last night and there is a new strike almost hourly. Telephone and postal workers have quit work, handicapping the cities industries. Delayed reports indicate that the strike disturbances are country wide, and feeling of revenge and hatred toward the Allies are springing up along side of the general chaos here. Orchestras in Berlin cafes last night struck up old time war songs and the crowds sang the songs with wild enthusiasm. Everywhere people are discussing earnestly, plans for Germany's revenge, when the proper time comes.

who lives the life of a hermit and shuts himself out from society because he does not wish to give up his personal freedom or sovereignty.

The speaker also illustrated that the league of nations does not have as its object the regulation of the size of the armies or navies of the Allied countries. He explained that the league would permit the contracting countries to have as great a military protection as was necessary for and that the pact would in no wise mean that the United States must drop all her military organization.

In speaking of the addresses made by Senator Reed and other opponents of the league, he explained that an entirely wrong explanation is given of the Monroe Doctrine, and that an attempt is being made to create a false impression of this document in the minds of the American people.

Dr. Jenkins also brought out that the charges of the league being unconstitutional were false, and that a personal investigation conducted by the Kansas City Post showed that by a unanimous vote, the opinion of prominent lawyers was that the league is entirely in accordance with the constitution of the United States.

In reply to the statement made by opponents that the United States should remain out of European affairs, Dr. Jenkins replied that "the United States is too big and the world is too small for us to remain a separate and isolated country." He explained that our country is already a great part of the European countries through her trade, and he further explained that the great world war has caused an affiliation between the United States and her allies which can never be disregarded or broken.

During his period as a war correspondent abroad, Dr. Jenkins came into touch with leading diplomats of many foreign countries, and in his talk last night explained the position of practice which our own President, Woodrow Wilson, occupies among the statesmen of the world. "There are many people here who criticize President Wilson," he said, "and it is perfectly in accordance with the American ideals of free speech and thought that they should, but, over there, Mr. Wilson is looked up to as a leader in the great questions of the world, and his statement is taken as authority by leading diplomats and brought before his hearers in the humanitarian phase of the league of nations as the most logical preventative of a repetition of such a world catastrophe."

At the close of his talk, Dr. Jenkins explained the horrors of war as he personally saw them on the fighting fronts, and brought before his hearers the humanitarian phase of the league of nations as the most logical preventative of a repetition of such a world catastrophe.

As an introduction to the speech by Dr. Jenkins last night, Rev. R. E. Snodgrass, pastor of the Christian church here, made an extended address in which he brought out in a strong manner the reasons why the league should receive the support of the people of this country. He illustrated the horrors of the battlefields and cited the large number of American boys who lie in graves in France as the result of war.

The meeting last night was opened by a short concert given by the Maryville band under the direction of Alfred P. Gsell. The concert started at 8 o'clock and a large audience enjoyed the excellent program of musical numbers.

Judge John Dawson was chairman of the meeting.

not as respectful as they might have been but on the whole the soldiers were most respectful and the nurses were worthy of such respect. In conclusion Miss Coler answered the most asked question of the army nurse—Do the soldiers fall in love with their nurses? The answer was that some few did but the nurse did not go to the army man hunting but to serve.

Mrs. Emmet Scott spoke next on the subject "At Home." She told of the various ways in which the housewife worked to help win the war. She told of the meatless and wheatless days, of the Red Cross work, the knitting, of the writing letters to lonesome boys overseas and the various methods used to promote the war work.

The Miss Tessie Degan, president elect, spoke on the subject, "Carry On." Miss Degan said that it was up to the graduates to talk up the school here and to advertise it so that they could turn back in later years with pride to the great and growing institution here. Miss Degan suggested two ways to the teachers to do this. One was to place "The Green and White Courier" where the students of the high schools in which they taught could read it. The other way was to contribute articles to the college paper.

President Richardson closed the program with a most impressive speech. His subject was "A Forward Glance." Among the many instructive things that he said were the following: "The future holds in store everything that we desire, everything that we aspire to; the forward glance rules your life, and with the change of the name of the school here should come a change of spirit." President Richardson then mentioned a few of the important actions which were taken by the board of regents. One of these was to the addition of a new department to the course of study to be known as the department of rural education. Another department added was to the course of study, also, was a department of physical education and public health. The board of regents, furthermore, adopted a ruling that all returned service men can have 6 quarters of educational training in the State Teachers College free of charge, and all graduate students may attend school free of charge.

Mrs. Fred Harbison and small daughter of St. Joseph, came last night to visit Mr. Harbison's mother, Mrs. Geo. Ingerson, and other relatives.

MOTHER SAVES VET'S MONEY.

Junction City, Kan., June 25.—Leo Rivers, a soldier, came home to find himself $300 richer than he thought he was. While in the army he made an allotment of $15 a month to his mother. He also had saved $100 while in France, sending it home by the "Y."

CRUEL WIND TAKES AWAY CELLULOID COLLAR AND TIE.

Connellsville, Pa., June 25.—The freak action of the wind was demonstrated here recently. A foreigner, wearing a celluloid collar and a "slip-in" bow tie, was seated by an open window of a street car. As the car swung around a bend to a sudden gust the tie was whisked from the collar, the collar was unbuttoned and whipped from the man's neck, and all went flying out of a window on the opposite side of the car.

Plan Hog Development Program.

Thirty-nine field workers in swine husbandry of the United States Department of Agriculture, several state directors of extension work, and others met in a conference in Washington last week with officials of the department. Plans were worked out for carrying on the extension work in developing hog production along more uniform lines than heretofore. Addresses were made by Dr. J. R. Mohler, Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry; G. M. Rommel, Chief of the Division of Animal Husbandry; E. Z. Russell, in charge of swine investigations; Bradford Knapp, chief of extension work in the South, and C. B. Smith, chief of extension work in the North and West. The workers spent a day at the department's experimental hog farm at Beltsville, Md., where judging contests and demonstrations of butchering and vaccination for cholera were held. All phases of the hog industry were discussed during the conference. Particular attention was given to the promotion of feeder animals in the South and the finishing of pork in the corn-belt states.

SPEAKER EXPLAINS THE "CHARMS OF MUSIC" AT S. T. C.

Mr. Smith explained to the future teachers the influence of music in their teaching work, and told how the courses might be worked in with the regular curriculum.

He will take up a position as director of music in the Boise, Idaho, public schools next year, and is one of a party of musical experts making a tour of educational institutions during the summer.

GLAD TO PASS IT ALONG, HE SAYS

Elmer Doonan Declares Tanlac Relieved Him of Rheumatism.

"I am glad to tell anybody about a medicine that did me as much good as Tanlac has," said Elmer Doonan, of 434 Fisher Ave., Detroit, Mich., recently.

"It was what I read in the papers about Tanlac that caused me to try it," he continued, "and I want to pass the good word along for the benefit of others. For a long time I had rheumatism so bad that my hands and wrists would swell up and pain me terribly and I would hardly be able to sleep at night on account of my sufferings. I would get up in the morning feeling so tired and worn out I could hardly drag myself off to work. I got so bad that I was losing time from my work and simply couldn't keep up."

"After trying everything else without getting any better I got some Tanlac, and it has done me a world of good. I sleep fine, have a splendid appetite, and am entirely relieved of my rheumatism."

Tanlac is sold in Maryville by the Koch Pharmacy and by A. M. Colly, Conception Junction; H. M. Lincoln, Fickering, and Carter Pharmacy, Burlington Junction, Mo., and in Barnard, by Bear Drug Store, in Elmo by King Drug Co., and in Clearmont by Dr. W. H. Wiley; Ravenwood by C. A. Shunk.—Adv.

Heat Causes Losses to Shipped Hogs.

Last May 651 hogs, weighing approximately 157,000 pounds, were unloaded dead or died in the stockyards at the South St. Paul market, according to records kept by a representative of the Bureau of Markets, United States Department of Agriculture. Of this number, 359 hogs, weighing approximately 102,500 pounds, died in transit or in yards during the last six days of the month. This was the week of the first real warm weather, and as is usually the case during the first hot spell in the summer season, the loss of hogs in transit was extremely heavy. The difference in price between dead or live hogs during this week was approximately 18 cents a pound, which would mean a total loss of $18,360 to shippers. This loss, says the Bureau of Markets, might have been largely avoided if the shippers had taken proper care in loading, seeing that all cars were properly cleaned before loading, and that cars were not loaded as heavily as is the custom in cooler weather. If these hogs had been loaded in clean cars the losses could have been further decreased by having them sprayed often in transit by the carrier, especially upon arrival at transfer points, and also upon delivery to the terminal. One of the largest buyers of hogs at the South St. Paul market, who reships to other markets for slaughter, states that the losses of his firm during the last week in May were no heavier than usual, but that they were extremely careful to have their cars thoroughly cleaned and sanded before loading, in addition to loading lighter than usual and taking the adequate precaution of requesting the rail road officials to issue instructions to have the hogs sprayed as often as possible in transit.

PECULIAR RECORDS SHOWN

BY ASSESSORS IN KANSAS.

McCracken, Kan., June 25.—The record of McCracken's assessor shows many interesting things about the ages of the well-known residents of this city. For instance, one of them is three years older this year than he was last, while another, a leading citizen, is two years older.

In another case the husband has added another year to his already half a hundred, while his wife, who was his schoolmate, is only thirty-eight—the same as for some years past.

The youngest citizen was three days old when the assessor called at the home of his parents, while a woman of eighty-five years claims the honors as the oldest.

"It's just like putting money in the bank," said a lady the other day when she realized what her savings would be in the course of a year by buying Welworth Blouses. She had bought them before and knew how completely satisfying they were.

These Blouses are made and sold under what might truthfully be termed the "WIRTHMOR SAVING PLAN" which is a more modern advanced, direct and economical way of making and distributing Blouses through many hundreds of progressive retail stores the nation over.

One of the new Welworth Styles that just came in is illustrated; there are other here equally as attractive. New models arrive with such frequency, that you are always assured of finding Styles that are NEW and CORRECT, that will appeal to your taste as well as to your purse.

New Welworth Blouses go on sale here on the same day they first appear in the Style Centers of the Country.

MEDICINES USED BY MONKS.

It is claimed that Monks of ancient days knew of more than three hundred species of medicinal plants used in general for medicines by these religious orders. While centuries have passed, with all the advance made in medical science, many of our most successful remedies are today made from the roots and herbs of the field, like that good, old-fashioned remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for more than forty years has been relieving women from some of the worst forms of female ills, and is now considered the standard remedy.—Adv.

NO 'CHARIVARI' FOR THIS FOR WAR VET AND BRIDE

Friends Who Called on Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Bradley, Newly-weds, Had the Joke Turned on Them.

The time honored custom of the friends of a newly married couple kidnapping, and making them listen to a murderous din of tin pan beating and cow bell ringing, commonly known as a charivari, is all well enough when the bridegroom is an ordinary civilian, but when he is a hero of the battlefields—just returned from battling the Boche—then it's a different thing.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Bradley, recently married at Kansas City came to Maryville yesterday for a visit with the brides parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tabler on Grand avenue.

Friends of Mrs. Bradley, in this city planned a charivari and went to the Tabler home last night. But young Mr. Bradley has learned through his experiences in the trenches the fine art of eluding the captors, and with his bride on his arm he camouflaged himself against the scenery and from a point of vantage watched the disappointed friends make their search.

The newly-weds held their position well and the friends were forced to retreat without gaining their objective.

Hard work acts unfavorably on the body that is bilious or constipated; producing low spirits, weakness and loss of energy.
